

VANITY FAIR

SUBSCRIBE | HOLLYWOOD | BUSINESS | POLITICS | CULTURE | SOCIETY | STYLE | BLOGS | PHOTOS

vanity fair ▸ VF DAILY ▸

VF DAILY
CULTURE · SOCIETY · POLITICS

GOSSIP PACK: HAMPTONS EDITION

Everyone in the Hamptons was Talking about Nacho, Balenciaga, and Lily Pond

9 tweets

tweeted

E-Mail the Editors

Get the RSS Feed

Follow us on Twitter

Last weekend in the Hamptons

...

• Factory alum including Lou Reed and “Baby” Jane Holzer congregated at art dealer Eric Firestone’s East Hampton gallery on Saturday for the opening of “Andy Warhol: Dylan to Duchamp,” a show featuring 150 photos that document the legendary Pop Art icon’s life, including never-before-seen shots of the artist at work. [NYP]

Nacho Figueras. By PatrickMcMullan.com.

• Meanwhile in Montauk, flocks of boat shoe-shod hipsters deserted the East Village to invade the Montauk Yacht Club to hear downtown darlings Jen Brill (of artist management firm Fred and Associates) and Chrissie Miller (designer of Sophomore) man the turntables. After all, what self-respecting downtown “It girl” doesn’t know how to D.J.? [Guest of a Guest]