Montauk Yacht Club

Another understated gem in the vein of Surf Lodge and Navy Beach, Montauk Yacht Club racked up 26 check-ins, inching its way closer to the 700 mark. Sure, that's not a jaw-dropping weekend tally, but since when was Barracuda Bar an elbow-to-elbow type of a joint?

While the summer season officially kicked off in the Hamptons over the holiday weekend, most seaside revelers chose to only dip their toe into the proverbial party waters. Still, Foursquare check-ins were on the rise, helping The Feast glean what venues will rank among 2011's most popular. Herewith, behold the top ten venues that received the greatest number of check-ins over Memorial Day Weekend. The big winner? That would be Robert McKinley, whose Surf Lodge and the newly opened Ruschmeyer's, a camp-inspired hotel, restaurant and beer garden in his beloved Montauk, slotted in at number one and number two on our list respectively. Having already lit up Manhattan nightlife with clubs like Caine, GoldBar and Good Units, it appears that the scruffy interior designer cum hospitality guru is just hitting his stride out east.
